TINKA STAKES TINGO ESTE COPPER PORPHYRY IN PERU

Vancouver, Canada - Tinka Resources Limited (TSXv-TK; Frankfurt-TLD; Pinksheets-TKRFF) (the "Company").

Mr. Andrew Carter, President, is pleased to announce the acquisition, through staking, of three contiguous claims totaling 3,000 hectares in the porphyry copper belt near the coastline of southwestern Peru known as Tingo Este. The project is situated in the province of Huaytara within the department of Huancavelica and is located approximately 30 km northwest of the Company's Tibillos properties (see press release December 5, 2005).

A recent reconnaissance survey by the Company's field crews identified exposed porphyry copper mineralization in a northwesterly trending quebrada over a distance of at least 300 metres. Chalcopyrite occurs as grains along fractures and in some of the crystalline quartz veins and the hostrocks are well fractured. Copper mineralization in 8 surface rock chip samples yielded from trace amounts to 0.3% copper.

The Company will systematically map and sample the surface area of the mineralized intrusion.
